

Monday 5 February 2018

It has been a very short, but action-packed half-term. This Thursday we see Year 10 parents and carers for their annual Parents' Evening, in early preparation for their Mock Exams near Easter. Last week Year 11 students received their Annual Reports, which gave them clear feedback as to what they need to do in their final months before their summer GCSEs. Both year groups are showing their maturity and dedication in their studies, combining this with positive contributions to the school community. Their combined recent Charity week raising over £1,000 for Cancer Research and a volunteering project in Namibia.

We are delighted that as well as joining us for regular assemblies, Reverend Bates now joins us fortnightly on a Wednesday lunchtime to build a chaplaincy connection to the school community. Students and staff can talk to her at lunchtime. This week is our fortnightly slot, in which we welcome her to us.

This week we are excited to once more be holding our bi-annual careers week. Students will have the chance to attend workshops by professionals in an array of careers, from agriculture to medicine, journalism to engineering. Speakers will speak about what their job entails, what pathway they took to get there and what opportunities there might be in similar fields.
